HUSBAND AND WIFE CONSTRUCTION COMPANY OWNERS FACE FRAUD CHARGES IN CITY OF AMSTERDAM IDA REHAB PROJECT

ALBANY – New York State Inspector General Catherine Leahy Scott announced today the arrest of the husband and wife owners of a Gloversville construction company for defrauding the worker's compensation system in their bid on a rehabilitation project sponsored by the City of Amsterdam Industrial Development Agency ("AIDA").

Alan Jon Squires, 47, and Bonnie Jean Squires, 46, of William Street, Gloversville, the owners of AB Construction and Environmental, LLC., were both charged today with various crimes as part of a scheme to defraud the workers' compensation system in their bid to rehabilitate mixed-use commercial and residential buildings in the City of Amsterdam. Alan Jon Squires was charged with Criminal Possession of a Forged Instrument in the Second Degree and three counts of Offering a False Instrument for Filing in the First Degree, felonies. Bonnie Jean Squires was charged with Forgery in the Second Degree, a felony.

An investigation by Inspector General Leahy Scott found that in 2013 the husband and wife team submitted a successful $295,000 bid to the AIDA to rehabilitate mixed-use commercial and residential buildings at 44 and 46 East Main Street. The bid was significantly lower than other bids submitted and listed several subcontractors the Squires planned to use for the project. When the Squires applied for building permits for the work, they filed paperwork with the City of Amsterdam's Engineering Department and the AIDA attesting they were exempt from having workers' compensation insurance coverage for the project.

Under State law, employers are required to maintain workers' compensation coverage for their employees and companies that use subcontractors must attest to the coverage for any project they oversee. The Squires allegedly altered workers' compensation exemption forms to make it appear as if AB Construction was exempt from workers' compensation coverage.

"These business owners corruptly manipulated the workers' compensation system to give themselves an unfair advantage over other bidders on the project," said Inspector General Leahy Scott. "I will vigorously pursue anyone who defrauds the workers' compensation system and work diligently to ensure the bidding process remains just and fair for businesses owners who provide honest work."

The Squires were arraigned in the City of Amsterdam Court and remanded to the Montgomery County Jail in lieu of $5,000 cash or $10,000 bond bail for Alan Squires and $1,500 cash or $3,000 bond bail for Bonnie Squires. Both are again due in City Court June 8.

Inspector General Leahy Scott thanked the Amsterdam and Gloversville Police Departments for their assistance with the arrests and Montgomery County District Attorney James E. Conboy and his office for prosecuting this matter.

The defendants are presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty in a court of law.
