ROCHESTER WOMAN SENTENCED, RESTITUTION ORDERED, FOR MORE THAN $9,500 IN WELFARE FRAUD

ROCHESTER- New York State Inspector General Catherine Leahy Scott today announced the sentencing and restitution order for a Rochester woman who fraudulently received more than $9,500 in welfare benefits by failing to report income she received through child support payments.

Michelle Newsome, 36, of Cady Street, Rochester, was sentenced today in Rochester City Court to three years of probation and ordered to pay full restitution of $9,578 for her recent guilty plea to Welfare Fraud in the Fifth Degree.

“This defendant concealed her income so she could fraudulently receive taxpayer-funded public benefits to which she was not entitled,” said Inspector General Leahy Scott. “I will continue to use the resources at my disposal to protect the integrity of the public benefits system which is critical for those who are truly in the most need of financial assistance.”

An investigation by Inspector General Leahy Scott with the assistance of the Monroe County Department of Human Services Special Investigations Unit found that Newsome received child support payments from January 2014 through December 2015 while collecting Temporary Assistance benefits through the Monroe County Department of Human Services. None of the income Newsome received from the child support payments was ever reported to the Department of Human Services, as required. The defendant’s failure to report the child support payments that she received resulted in her receiving $9,578 in Temporary Assistance benefits to which she was not entitled.

Inspector General Leahy Scott thanked the Monroe County Department of Human Services Special Investigations Unit for their assistance with the investigation, the New York State Police for their assistance with the arrest, and Monroe County District Attorney Sandra Doorley and her office for prosecuting this matter.
