

State of New York
Offices of the Inspector General

Investigative Auditor – New York City (located in lower Manhattan)

The Offices of the Inspector General (“OIG”) are comprised of three offices, derived from three appointments held by Inspector General Lucy Lang: The Office of the New York State Inspector General (“NYSIG”), as established by Executive Law Article 4-A, which is entrusted with the responsibility of ensuring that New York State government, its employees, and those who work with the State meet the highest standards of honesty, accountability, and efficiency; The Office of the New York State Welfare Inspector General (“OWIG”), as established by section 74 of the Executive Law, which is responsible for maintaining the integrity of New York State’s public assistance programs; and The Office of the New York State Workers’ Compensation Fraud Inspector General (“WCFIG”), as established by section 136 of the Workers’ Compensation Law, which is responsible for investigating violations of the laws and regulations pertaining to the operation of the workers’ compensation system. Additionally, as of June 18, 2021, the duties and responsibilities of the former Office of the Gaming Inspector General were transferred to and encompassed by NYSIG, including the duty to receive and investigate complaints from any source concerning allegations of corruption, fraud, criminal activity, conflicts of interest or abuse in the Gaming Commission.

Job Description

OIG conducts in-depth investigations and analysis of alleged criminal wrongdoing, corruption, conflicts of interest, fraud and abuse in New York State agencies/entities that fall under its jurisdiction. The Investigative Auditor is responsible for conducting the forensic audits and systemic reviews on behalf of OIG. In conjunction with Investigative Counsels and Investigators, the Investigative Auditor works collaboratively to investigate the allegations and report the findings. Investigative Auditors report to and receive direction from both the regional Director of Audit, and the regional Deputy Inspectors General.

Minimum Qualifications

Position requires a bachelor’s degree with a minimum of 24 credits in accounting or related field. The ideal candidate is an auditor with a financial and analytical background who is experienced in conducting criminal and particularly white-collar criminal fraud investigations within the local, state and/or federal government contexts. Also encouraged is experience in public benefits fraud, contracts, and/or gaming fraud. Candidate must be extremely proficient in understanding, distilling, and organizing large amounts of data and information, and can clearly and concisely summarize the information in a fashion compatible with the needs of an investigation. Candidate must be experienced in using data analysis, data mining and statistical software.

Those familiar with New York State and federal laws and agencies, testifying in a court of law, and/or prior law enforcement experience will be given priority consideration. That said, candidates who have not completely amassed this ideal level of experience but who possess skillsets closely within this range are strongly encouraged to apply.

Overall, ideal OIG candidate possesses sound judgment, strong oral and written communication skills, is an excellent legal researcher, and has significant interview and/or deposition experience. The ideal candidate has a collegial attitude, is a self-starter, works well independently, and is a highly adept multitasker. Additionally, candidate must be willing and available to work unscheduled hours as necessary. Some travel is required.

New York State Residency is Required. This is a Management Confidential position that is appointed by the Inspector General. The salary range is $61,423-$76,218 (Grade 18 equivalent).
